Welcome to the historic Crown Hotel, Maryvale. The doors were first opened in 1913 under the first licensee Bridget Keefe (wife of Constable Mr Matt Keefe originally from Brisbane) to attract patrons from the new railway station opened two years earlier. The Keefe's began construction in May 1912 and were determined to build an enduring structure comprised of reinforced concrete and steel. Apparently their son had survived the San Francisco Earthquake of 1906. Take a wander through the hotel and see the cut out in the hallway that shows you the internal composition of the walls. The railway was envisioned to connect Sydney to Brisbane passing through Spicers Gap for trade & tourism. The line closed 1st November 1960 due to the increase in road transport and the upgrade of Cunningham's Gap. However the grand old building with its heritage features (high ceilinged rooms, pressed metal ceilings, cornices, cosy fireplaces, polished floorboards and extensive verandahs overlooking the beautiful vista) is still at the heart of the village and also hosts visitors from far and wide. In August 2022 Mark and Jacki Wuerschling were excited to purchase the hotel and anticipate restoring and building on the Crown's heritage. Thanks for visiting and hope you love Crown Hotel, Maryvale as much as we do.
